

If organized in groups, students get a chance to interact with their peers, pool in gathered information and come up with a working solution together, thus enhancing their social skills and teamwork through collaboration